

After backlash from vaccine skeptics, Trump appears to be distancing himself from vaccines as the “cure-all” for dealing with the coronavirus pandemic

(Natural News) After being strongly condemned by the pro-liberty, pro-health freedom movement, President Trump appears to be backing away from positioning vaccines as the “cure-all” for the coronavirus. In comments made earlier today, Trump said, “Vaccine or no vaccine, we’re back.” This is the first time Trump has publicly acknowledged the likelihood that a vaccine...
